Finding Rest in Christ

In this Sunday's Gospel, Jesus offers one of the most comforting invitations in all of Scripture: "Come to me, all you who labor and are burdened, and I will give you rest."

These words speak directly to every heart weighed down by worry, disappointment, grief, or the relentless pace of daily life.

The world often tells us that we must carry every burden ourselves. Success, security, and happiness can seem to depend entirely on our own efforts. Yet Jesus offers a different way. He does not promise a life without challenges, but He promises that we do not have to face them alone.

Jesus invites us to take His yoke upon ourselves. At first, that may sound like another burden, but His yoke is unlike any other. In biblical times, a yoke joined two animals so they could work together. When we accept Christ's yoke, we are not carrying life's weight by ourselves. We walk beside Him, allowing Him to strengthen, guide, and sustain us.

True rest is more than physical relaxation. It is the peace that comes from trusting God, knowing that He loves us and is present even in difficult moments. This peace allows us to serve others with joy rather than resentment, to forgive rather than hold grudges, and to face uncertainty with hope.

As we celebrate the Eucharist this weekend, may we place our burdens before the Lord. Let us bring Him our fears, anxieties, and struggles, trusting that His grace is sufficient for every need. In return, may we discover the gentle and humble heart of Christ, who alone can give lasting rest to our souls.

"Come to me...and you will find rest for yourselves." May this invitation remain with us throughout the week, reminding us that our greatest strength is found not in ourselves, but in the loving embrace of our Savior.

Please remember these Brothers and Sisters in your Prayers:
